

Integrated Environmental & Communication Solutions

Senior Environmental Project Manager (San Francisco)

CirclePoint, a leading environmental planning and communications firm in San Francisco, is seeking a full-time Senior Environmental Project Manager.

CirclePoint provides environmental consulting services for a broad range of planning and development projects. We conduct CEQA and NEPA analyses (EIRs and EISs), as well as specialized studies such as Visual Impact Assessments, Section 4(f) Studies, and Community Impact Assessments. We work closely with local, regional and state government agencies throughout Northern California. Our portfolio of work includes large scale planning and development projects along with rail, transit and highway projects. We strive to provide the highest level of service to our clients.

Responsibilities: Preparing CEQA/NEPA environmental documents for highly complex and controversial transportation, land development and infrastructure projects. Candidate will be responsible for overall project activities, schedule and budget management and staff team building and development. Candidate will also be responsible for business development activities and proposal preparation.

Requirements: An advance degree in urban planning, environmental studies or a related field is necessary with a minimum of ten years of professional consulting work experience. Thorough knowledge of the implementing guidelines of agencies such as Caltrans, FHWA, FTA, etc. The position requires demonstration of consulting skills, project management, and marketing experience.

CirclePoint is an equal opportunity employer.
